

This is another text in English to test the wordcloud functionality. Another idea for the wordcloud weighting could be a function on the absolute and relative propability of a words instead of the entropy approach. Or a mix of both of them.